Minutes

1. No matters arising.
2. Feedback Conference 2018:

There was general approval and recognition of success of 2018 conference with particular mention of Art Night. Some discussion occurred on conference length with some feeling that four days is too long and other feeling that people preferred not too many (some said any) concurrent sessions. It was noted that the local Jungians had totally failed to spread the word about JSSS in Portland, despite being asked to do so several times. This is in contrast to conferences in DC and Chicago where local Jung Institutes got involved.

Two people volunteered to help: 1) One with web material and another with making a digital friendly program and organizing a conference trip like Edmonton or Ithaca.

3. JSSS Journal matters including CFP for revised conference papers:
   Editor for the Journal explained the essays come out of conference papers. She will be sending out cfp soon with the theme “emerging” and a deadline Oct 1st for submission.
   A successful paper includes a lit review that is succinct & establishes the context. Our field is interdisciplinary, effectively across disciplines you can speak effectively, and be a translator. The Journal is speaking to a Jungian audience primarily, but never hurts to define terms. Papers to be emailed to General Editor. The Poetry Editor will continue to receive poetry and Art Editor, art submissions.
   Meeting thanked our extraordinary copy editor.
It was emphasized that this is a peer review journal, a point may need further articulation which would lengthen shorter papers. APA or MLA format acceptable and book reviews & film reviews will occur this year. Stay tuned for how this will be done but will include recent books and films, or TV, or digital gaming, web experiences, VR experience. 2018 journal is available online now, and look at it for preparing for next year. It is available as a single PDF file that you pull up.

Theme suggestions:
Chaos, Incompleteness, and unity.
Grievance and grief
Liminal
Place
No one came forward definitively to offer themselves as either Program Chair or Site Coordinator. Asheville was mentioned. Desirability of a) choosing somewhere people really want to go and b) being able to plan a conference more than a year in advance, was established. The JSSS Board will consider possibilities and receive suggestions/offers of volunteers in the next couple of months.

5. Election new JSSS Officers and Board members.
Thanks offered to 2018 Site Co-ordinator for helping with the finances in addition to the sterling work of new Treasurer. Plus, thanks to Program Chair in 2018 for the conference and to the retiring President.
